The annual circus sponsored by Camp Wauwepex of the Nassau County Council was a huge success. The ringmaster, Malcolm Haight, put on a show rivaling the real circus. Included in the gala performance were clowns, "ferocious animals," a legless boy with shoes on, the man on the flying trapeze, a strong man, Siamese twins, and finally Prof. Zinadski's Wax Works of dummies, in which some of the Wauwepex campers took part. The mess hall floor was strewn with shells and crackerjack boxes when the sweeper came around after the show, all of which attested to its success.
