

By MICHAEL J. SCHRAMM

A new feature this year at Camp Wauwepex, Wading River, is the land ship constructed for the land training of Nassau County's Sea Scouts. It is 84 feet long and has been constructed along the lines of a real ship. The Sea Scouts will sleep in hammocks, cook in the galley and follow regular ship routine as though actually at sea. On each Wednesday they will go to Riverhead and board the Wauwepex boats, the Swordfish and the Half Moon, for cruising on Peconic Bay. Elliott W. Mangam, the Nassau County director of Sea Scouting, will serve as skipper of the Sea Scout unit at camp this summer. Mr. Allan Whitman of Cold Spring Harbor, has donated his own boat, the Half Moon, a 28-foot auxiliary ketch, and his personal services for the summer. He will assist Mr. Mangam in the direction of the Sea Scout unit.

ably leave from Boston in September.

* * *

Chief White Bear, who was at the Brooklyn Scout camps last summer, walked into the Boy Scout office a few days ago and announced his intention of going back again this summer. This is welcome news to the Scouts going to camp. Chief White Bear, a full-blooded member of the Hopi tribe, is a student at Carlisle College. He will again instruct the boys in the ways and legends of the Indians.

* * *

Several hundred Scouts will leave for the Brooklyn Scout camps tomorrow morning. These Scouts will be an advance guard of an even greater number who will leave the following Monday, July 4. By opening the camp on this early date the Scouts will be able to enjoy a ten-week season.

* * *

A large number of parents and friends attended the parents' meeting of Troop and Pack 321, held recently at P. E. 189, East New York ave. and Rockaway pkwy. A number of awards were made by